January 30, 2009

On Friday, January 30, 2009 at approximately 7:00 a.m. a single vehicle, roll-over accident on eastbound I-275 at the 3.7 mile marker sent the driver of a small SUV to the University Hospital via Air Care.

Joshua Azevedo, 28 of Florence, Kentucky was east on I-275 in the left lane - which was snow covered – driving a 1998 Toyota CRV when he lost control going into the median and rolling over. Azevedo was not wearing a seat belt and sustained head injuries, condition unknown. He was the only occupant in the vehicle.

Both sides of I-275 were shut down for approximately 30 minutes while Air Care used it as a landing zone. Motorists are reminded to exercise due caution on the roadways as there are still areas of icy sections that create havoc for the unsuspecting driver.
